

January 31, 2014

Karen Robinson-Jacobs

Local vet signs franchise deal to open Amsterdam Falafelshop in North Texas

Amsterdam Falafelshop, a popular restaurant in Washington, D.C.'s Adams Morgan neighborhood, is headed to Dallas-Fort Worth.

Chris Kline, a North Texas-based veteran of the war in Iraq, and a team of investors hopes to open the first location here within a year.

Amsterdam Falafelshop is a fast-casual restaurant that combines a Middle Eastern staple with the culture of Amsterdam. The D.C. version is open until 4 a.m.